

I'm opposed the the deployment of wideband access using the power mains. The amount of interference to Amateur Radio and other services is unknown, and it could be substantial. Until the interference is quantified, it should not be permitted.